“ Joe was the Ship Coordinator for the AE/AOE Sailors Association representing his service in Vietnam on the USS Mt Baker AE-34. For those who are not familiar with the Navy this was an Ammunition Ship and they work long hard hours doing dangerous work. At our reunions which Joe attended many his shipmates literally worshiped him for his caring and calm manner. He was always there for them and I know they were there for him as his illnesses progressed. Joe is one of thousands of Blue Water Sailors who suffered and died from Agent Orange. to which he was exposed as a young sailor. He was kind and helpful to everyone no matter what ship they served on. The Navy has a saying "Fair Winds and Following Seas shipmate on your journeys beyond.. Your sacrifice will always be remembered and you and your family are in our hearts. Beverly King, AE/AOE Sailors Association

“ Spending the last couple of days with mom and dad and Dave and Kyle were priceless. Even up until he couldn't talk, Dad was concerned about mom being taken advantage of. No need to worry Dad; Mom proved she is a strong woman when she needs to be and NO ONE will be taking advantage of her anytime soon! I will treasure the time spent with my brothers and Kyle. The late night talks and giggles with mom still make my heart smile. Dad you will be missed and leave a large hole in our lives, but know we will take care of each other. I love you.

“ One of my many memories is when he made grilled asparagus wrapped in bacon; first time I ever ate asparagus - it's been a favorite ever since! His love for the kitties was so sweet; maybe a little too sweet - he would have been "the crazy cat man" if there was such a thing - he wanted to feed & love them all!

May you have comfort from the loving arms of God Himself & peace that surpasses all understanding during this time & always.
