“ I will remember Max with a smile on my face and in my heart, but also with feelings of sadness for the loss of a good friend. Max was the man who got my family started in beekeeping many years ago. He had an easy going personality which made one glad to be around him. One of my favorite memories was his answer to my beekeeping concerns when I would ask....

”But Max, the book says that the bees should be doing this or that!!!” His quiet, simple answer with a smile was always..

“Ray, the bees haven’t read that book..”

Thanks Max for all that you contributed to all of our lives.

“ Ahh Jo, I'm so very sorry. I knew something was wrong because I haven't seen you there for a while. I used to feel connected to your dad because of his bees. They would come in a steady stream to visit our fountain and I would watch them fly up over the house to go back to yours! I'd tell them..... say hi to Max for us! I'll keep you and yours in my prayers
